Small-town showdown: Minneota edges Springfield

By Bruce Strand

Minneota and Springfield don’t normally cross paths in basketball, but when they finally did, it was a game they’ll remember for a long time.

Realizing both would be leading contenders in Class 1A this year, the schools arranged a holiday matchup.

No. 1 ranked Minneota (9-0) edged No. 2 Springfield 78-75 in a gymnasium bulging with fans at Minneota on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 29.

As editor Byron Higgins of the Minneota Mascot began his report: “When the top two teams in state go head-to-head, just what would you expect? How about tied seven times, the lead bobbing back-and-forth more times than a Yo-Yo, a jam-packed crowd yelling their lungs out and a heart-pounding conclusion? If that’s what you expected, you were in the right place Saturday in Minneota.”

Minneota coach Dave Busselman reflected: “Our big guys stepped out and played well.” That would be Jacob Hennen (24 points, eight rebounds), Logan Sussner (19 points, 15 rebounds) and Thomas Hennen (21 points, nine rebounds).

Springfield’s Isaac Fink, a 6-4 senior averaging 30 points, notched 20 points and 13 rebounds. “We knew he would be a handful,” said Busselman. The coach praised his guard Jared Josephson for hounding Tiger star. Springfield also had Decker Scheffler with 19 points and Mitchell Buerkle with 11.

Thomas Hennen’s 3-pointer gave Minneota a 72-71 lead. Put-backs by Jacob Hennen and Sussner kept them ahead 76-73. When Fink missed a 3-pointer to tie, Thomas Hennen rebounded, got fouled and sank two free shots. Scheffler’s basket in the final seconds made it 78-75.

“It was a great game atmosphere,” Springfield coach Lance Larson said. “Nice game to have over the break, to see where we are at. We got beat up on the boards a little by the Sussner kid … We led at halftime by five but just couldn’t get a couple stops when we needed them. Credit to Minneota.”

Both trams return most of their firepower from section runner-up teams. Minneota was 24-4 and lost to state champion Russell-Tyler-Ruthton 71-69 in the 3A finals. Springfield was 28-2 and lost to Mayer Lutheran 78-75 in the 2A finals.

Jacob Hennen commented about the No. 1 ranking, “We try not to let it go to our heads.” They’ll have that nice problem for a while longer.
DLS duels powers from other states

By Bruce Strand

For the DeLaSalle boys, state champions six of the last seven years, the annual holiday destination is South Dakota to take on powerhouses from around the nation.

This year’s competition was particularly fierce and the Islanders, top-ranked in Class 3A again, lost two of three.

Their overall record in nine years in the Pheasant State is 15-5. They’ve played two games in a gala at the Corn Palace in Mitchell all nine years, and in the last two years have added a third game against Yankton in Sioux Falls.

Findlay Prep of Las Vegas beat the Islanders 78-68 on Dec. 27. This is the prep school that’s sent 13 players to the NBA since 2010. DeLaSalle last played them in 2013 and lost 58-44.

DeLaSalle then defeated Mountain Brook of Birmingham, AL, 63-62, also at the Corn Palace on Dec. 28. Mountain Brook has a 15-3 record.

In a marquee game for local fans, DeLaSalle lost to Yankton, South Dakota’s top-ranked team in the largest class, and defending state champion, 71-65 in overtime, in the Hoop City Classic in Sioux Falls on Dec. 29.

Tyrell Terry pumped in 33 points for the Islanders (5-3), whose other senior star, Jamison Battle, has missed five games with a shoulder injury.

Yankton features a super sophomore, 6-7, 240-pound Matthew Mors, who’s been packing gyms the last two seasons. Mors logged 27 points and 11 rebounds against the Islanders. Last year, Mors averaged 24 points as a freshman and led Yankton to its first state title since 1978.

DeLaSalle was 3-0 in South Dakota last year, edging Yankton 61-57.
Alexandria girls, No. 1 in Class 3A, scuttle 2A’s top two squads

By Bruce Strand

The Alexandria girls had a chance to live up their No. 1 slot in Class 3A when they faced the top two Class 2A teams at the new Grand8 Holiday Classic at Perham.

The Cardinals (9-0) came through, defeating No. 2 Sauk Centre 60-53 in the semifinals and No. 1 Roseau 82-64 in the championship, Dec. 27-28. In doing so, they vanquished the last two Class 2A state champions.

Under coach Wendy Kohler, the Cardinals have a 586-273 record, nine state tournament appearances, one state championship (1997) and two fourth-places, along with 11 conference titles and seven runners-up.

For all that, being ranked first is a new experience.

“I do not remember if we have ever been No. 1 before. Maybe in ‘88 when there was only two classes,” Kohler said, recalling duels with conference rival Little Falls. “Those were some wars back then coaching against Jerry Cool and the Flyers!”

About holding the top spot, Kohler remarked: “Being No. 1 has only meant that our practices have become even tougher and intense. We know we need to continue to improve and take each practice and game one at a time. The only ranking that matters is the one at the end.”

In the close win over Sauk Centre, Ella Grove sank 24 points, Kaye Paschka 18 and Mia McGrane 10. Tori Peschel hit 18 poinys and Michaela Damman 12 for the Mainstreeters. Meanwhile Roseau nipped Perham 71-68 in overtime in the other semifinal.

“We had to beat a very tough Sauk Centre team the night before to get to the championship game, which was no easy task,” Kohler said. “We jumped out on Roseau right away and went into the half leading 36-19. We knew that no lead was safe against a team with the talented Borowicz sisters.”

Katie Borowicz pumped in 32 points and Kacey Borowicz had 22 for the Rams (7-2), who pulled within 12 points, only to see Alexandria go on a 9-0 run.

Alexandria hits from all over. Grove notched 19 points, 10 rebounds and five steals. Paschka had 17 points, five assists and three steals. McGrane sank 17 points, five assists and three steals. McEnzie Duwenhoegger had nine points and 14 rebounds and Summer Gerhardt nine points. The Cardinals made 19 of 24 free shots and shot 50 percent on three’s.

“We are deep and can attack from all five positions,” acknowledged Kohler. “We preach that everyone does their part on offense and defense, starter or non-starter.

“We have a nice blend of speed, length and strength. Our bench is deep and everyone trusts and believes in each other. It’s a solid sisterhood. Defense has always been the Alexandria mentality and this year is no different.”

Roseau edged host Perham 71-68 in overtime in the other semifinal.
Sizing up the Gophers: top 6 finish in Big 10 is goal to shoot for

By Terry Kunze

As the tough Big Ten season begins in earnest, the Golden Gophers — currently 11-2 overall and 1-1 in conference — will have to step up. With six teams in the Top 25, the league is strong. Winning home games will be crucial.

The Gophers’ main strengths are on the defensive end. With excellent size and length, they will be tough to score against. They’re also strong on defensive rebounding, which is especially important in road games.

There’s more problems on the other end. The Gophers are not a good perimeter shooting team. They’re especially shaky on three’s, a dismal 31 percent, which will not win many road games. Their free throw shooting (so crucial in the last three minutes) is an erratic 66 percent.

Let’s look at the young men wearing the maroon and gold this year.

Jordan Murphy is the key. This 6-7, 250-pound senior is a “horse” who can be almost unstoppable on the block. With his leaping ability and non-stop work ethic, he’s a potent scorer and offensive rebounder (16.2 ppg, 12.9 rpg). One problem is constant foul trouble. He must not commit silly fouls, which is his tendency with his aggressive nature.

Another key is Amir Coffey, 6-8 junior guard/forward with good quicks and a good handle, an exceptional passer who creates shots for teammates, gets to the basket and draws fouls. One negative: he’s a streaky shooter (15.3 ppg). He sometimes runs away from the outside shot, drives and commits offensive fouls. But he’s very good on a broken floor, and as he goes, so go the Gophers.

Dupree McBrayer, 6-5 senior, is the shooting guard and an exceptional defender, very athletic with good size. He is another streak shooter, up and down from game to game, but capable of making the big shot.

Gabe Kalscheur, 6-4 freshman guard, is the best shooter on the club (10 ppg), although, after his hot start, the scouting reports on him have reduced his contributions. He won’t be left alone on the perimeter and must adapt to get open. But he stretches the floor, allowing bigs to get off inside, and doesn’t make foolish mistakes. He’s a solid player and will have a nice career.

Daniel Oturu, 6-10 freshman, a very athletic post, will be a force before he is done. Averaging 10 points, he’s just learning how to play against other bigs at this level. He’s got good hands, nice passing skills, exceptional movement off the ball, rebounds well on offense, and hits free shots. Oturu could make it to the next level.

Isaiah Washington, 6-1 sophomore guard, could be a valuable asset, if he plays the right way. A very good penetrator and passer, his decision-making is questionable at times. He must stay focused and understand his strengths and weaknesses. One announcer commented: “Washington is a player that keeps both teams in the game.” He has shown considerable improvement the last three games.

Eric Curry, 6-9 soph, could make this team good. After missing 1 1/2 years, he must get in playing shape. When he’s ready, he’ll move someone out of the starting lineup. He has inside and outside skills, and great size and length.

Michael Hunt, 6-7 junior, is a solid backup at guard or forward, can score at times and moves well off the ball. Matz Stockman, 7-0 senior, is a shot-blocker, and although not strong, a solid backup. Jarvis Omersa, 6-6 freshman, has tremendous “hops” and runs the floor well; he needs work on shooting, fundamentals and how to work against better players. Brock Stull, 6-4 senior transfer, just getting into game shape, is reputed to be a good shooter; he isn’t getting many minutes yet but they need another shooter.

The Gophers have some nice pieces and could be a surprise in the Big Ten. I feel that making the top six would be a successful season. Consistent play from Coffey and Murphy is needed. They have to figure out how to score more on the road. I think the Gophers will be fun to watch.
Raiders rule roost at home again

By Bruce Strand

Roseville Area has hosted the Roseville Holiday Classic as an eight-team tournament for the last eight years -- and won it for the fifth time this year.

The No. 7 Raiders (10-2) edged No. 11 Centennial 44-41 in the finals, led by Jayda Johnston with 14 points and Kaylee Nelson 12. Both sides displayed intense defense, allowing few open shots. The Raiders held Centennial (7-3) to 20 points below its average. Jodi Anderson scored 12 points and Taylor McAulay 11 for the Cougars.

Roseville Area reached the finals beating Woodbury 53-39 and Rogers 73-47. Centennial downed Eagan 73-33 and Robbinsdale Cooper 60-53. McAulay, senior signed by Drake, notched her 1,000th point by scoring 36.

First Wild-Card title for Minnehaha

The “WildCard” tournament has been co-hosted by Willmar (Cardinals) and New London-Spicer (Wildcats) for about 30 years. Minnehaha Academy was champion this year — for the first time in the nine years they’ve journeyed out to Kandiyohi County — by vanquishing both co-hosts. The Redhawks (7-5) sank 10 three-pointers and clipped New London-Spicer 51-44 in the finals. Mia Curtis netted 24 points with five trifecta’s. Nevaeh Galloway had nine points (three 3-pointers) and Tanna Gallo eight (two 3-pointers). Emma Nelson led NLS (5-4) with 14. The Redhawks beat Willmar (5-2) in the semifinals 61-55, with Taytum Rhoades hitting 27 points and Curtis 15.

Wayzata clips H-M in unbeatens duel

Class 4A’s No. 2 ranked Wayzata (12-0) won the Hill-Murray tournament for the third straight season, handing the host Pioneers their first loss 67-42 in the finals. Jenna Johnson scored 19 points, Kallie Theisen 13 and Annika Stewart 12. Delaney Runyon sank 18 points with four 3-pointers for Hill-Murray (10-1). Hill-Murray coach Erin Herman told Minnesota Basketball Hub that the tall Trojans are “extremely talented. Even if they were 5-10, they would be formidable.”

Sophomore forward Adalia McKenzie scored 30 points to lead Park Center in a 77-48 win over Lakeville North in Park Center’s tournament. Aaliyah Ragulen added 15 points and Lauren Frost 12 for the Pirates (7-2). Lakeview North (5-4) got 20 from Lauren Jensen. The Pirates completed the job beating Minnetonka 61-47 in the finals as McKenzie scored 17, T’Naye Griffin 14 and Frost 10. Desiree Ware led Minnetonka (6-5) with 14.

High-scoring Prior Lake (5-5) won the eight-team St. Olaf tournament which featured a pair of 2,000-point scorers. The Lakers defeated BOLD 97-73 in the first round, with Heidi Pitsch sinking 25 points and McKenna Hofschild 22. Hofschild went over 2,000 early this season, and BOLD senior Makenna Steffel joined that club in this game, sinking 24 points. Prior Lake went on to defeat Northfield 79-50 and Grand Rapids 76-54, with Hofschild totaling 73 points and Pitsch 51.

Mike Kocian scored 40 points in a game for Bigfork in 1966, setting a team record that would stand for 52 years — until Carter Cook surpassed it, not once but in two straight games, in December.

Kocian stayed in Bigfork and runs Kocian’s Family Market. “Mike has been at a lot of games over the years, and had three sons who played,” said coach Chad Lovdahl.

Cook, 6-2 senior guard, poured in 55 points on Tuesday, Dec. 11, in a double-overtime loss to Fond du Lac Ojibwe, 96-90, at home, notching seven 3-pointers, 13 rebounds and eight assists. He had just six at halftime and erupted for 34 in the second half, for a regulation total of 40, then 15 in the overtimes. However, Fond du Lac Ojibwe countered with Jordan Brown scoring 37, Conner Barney 26 and Avery Misquadace 20.

Three days later, Cook nailed 44 more points, including eight 3-pointers, this time in a victory as Bigfork (4-4) edged Nashwauk-Keewatin 72-70, also at home.

“Mostly mid-range jumpers, and some three-pointers,” said Cook about the scoring binge. Cook’s previous high was 39, last season. Asked if he knew the local grocer whose record he broke, he said, “Not really. I know who he is, but I haven’t met him.”

Cook is averaging 35 points, five assists, eight rebounds and three steals. “Carter is a pure shooter,” Lovdahl assessed. “He spends many, many hours in the gym shooting. He never leaves without finishing his day with a make. He can handle the ball very well and can go low and post up. He doesn’t force shots. I always tell him if he’s having an off night shooting to keep shooting.”
Henning wins 2 duels of unbeatens

By Bruce Strand

The Henning boys won two straight clashes of unbeatens, over Barnesville 75-56 and East Grand Forks 76-68, at the Concordia-Moorhead holiday tournament.

Against Barnesville, Lee Bjorklund scored 18 points off the bench without missing a shot (6-for-6 on field goals, 4-for-4 at the line). Blake Wallevand added 15 points (7-for-9 from the field). Along with hot shooting, Henning had “our best defensive effort of the year,” coach Randy Misegades said. “I feel like our depth was a factor.”

Against East Grand Forks, Henning overcame a 33-point siege by EGC’s Julian Benson. Sam Fisher hit 20 points, Wallevand 14, and Parker Fraki 10. “This was a great test for our guys, as we were forced to battle through some EGF runs and keep our composure,” said Misegades. The coach cited Isaac Fisher for good defensive pressure.
